Bill Wynn:

So what? That was one of the first questions Bill Winn asked when he first heard Baxter Kruger speak. He wanted to know what the practical application of all this beautiful theology was. In the twenty years that have passed since that time he not only knows more of how this relates to everyday life, as a pastor, husband, and father he's seen it transform lives. In May at the Perichoresis Men's Gathering he'll share stories and insights from his journey with the Father, Son, and Spirit to know as he is known.

Tim Walker:

Now what, so what. Like Bill, my journey has been similar. It's great to hear theology but where does it go from here. How does Trinity intersect with my daily life, with my family, and those beyond the walls of our local churches. In my years of doing counseling, I've seen and used Baxter's three chair illustration. You witness a client's perspective change instantly before your eyes. They finally find the freedom that they've been longing for. In our session, we will discover how to put the truth into practice in ways that transform our lives, and those that we intersect with.

Event Notes:

- Coolers
- Speakers and Mics (Carl and Bill)
- How do we manage the audience QnA?
- Small book table – who can manage?

AAW Notes

- TV Segments:
    - Prioritize 8 recordings and record a 100th session
    - Keep them to 26 minutes – David to manage as on site director
    - Capture wide and audience reaction shots
- Breakouts:
    - Meet in separate corners

- Keep it casual and very interactive
